

The Humor Games - Casting Options

This spreadsheet may assist you in assigning roles to your HUMOR GAMES cast if you want or need to have actors play multiple parts. It will let you know which parts are able to double with which others. A blank space means the character in the row could be doubled with the character in the column, a black space means it could not (use the zoom option to see the list in more detail). The black spaces are only for characters that can't be doubled because they would need to be onstage at the same time, or too close together to allow a quick change. It does not take the sex of the characters into consideration, so it would allow a male character to double with a female. To the best of our knowledge, this spreadsheet is accurate. If you find an error in it, please notify Playscripts so we can modify this.
